WILL CASE APPEALED TO SUPREME COURT

CONTESTANTS OF JOSEPH SHIVELY WILL TO FIGHT JUDGE GRIMM'S DECISION ADMITTING WILL TO PROBATE

TRIED NEXT MONTH

Outcome Of Case Will Be Watched With Interest Especially by Evansville People—Valuable Estate Involved

Contestants of the will of the late Joseph Shively, of Evansville, have appealed the decision of Judge Grimm of the circuit court to the Supreme Court of the State of Wisconsin, and the case will probably be tried in the fall of 1918. Notice of appeal was filed in the circuit court yesterday afternoon by the contestants' attorneys, George G. Sutherland and Charles E. Pierce, and records were mailed to the supreme court yesterday afternoon by Circuit Court Clerk, Jesse Earle. Considerable interest has been taken in the case by Evansville people generally and the decision of the circuit court will be anxiously awaited. It was the decision of Judge Grimm rendered June 24th, that George L. Pullen of Evansville was the lawful heir to the forty thousand dollar estate of Joseph Shively. Pullen's attorneys in the case were O. E. Oestreich and T. S. Nolan. The decision rendered by the circuit court judge was just the reverse of that handed down by Judge Grimm, who denied probate to the will when the case was tried in county court last fall.

Judge Maxwell held that the charge of the incompetency of Joseph Shively, alleged by the contestants in their objections to the will was not proved, but that the burden of the will, thrown on the contestant of the will, George L. Pullen, charging undue influence in obtaining the will, was not rebutted, and therefore decided in favor of the contestants, who are all distant relatives of Shively. Judge Grimm, on the contrary, held that the making of the will was purely voluntary and that the charge that Shively was incapable of making a last will and testament was fully rebutted by the contestant.

In the face of these two opposing decisions it will be most interesting to note the outcome of the case when it comes to the justices of the Supreme Court next month. Both sides are preparing for a hard fight and it will no doubt be a difficult case for the judges to decide. One of the most interesting features of the case which was brought out in both trials was that of Shively's many declarations that he would prevent his relatives from getting any of his property if he could possibly do so. The contestant of the will, George Pullen, a friend of the deceased, testified that Shively wanted to leave his estate to him as a token of appreciation of their long friendship.

Chief of Police Champion stated that he will issue instructions in a few days to his men to have them gather in all dogs that are not carrying license tags.

RAINS THROUGHOUT STATE DURING WEEK BENEFIT TO CROPS

Farmers In All Sections Of Wisconsin Make Encouraging Reports—Corn Is Somewhat Backward Yet

Recent rains throughout the entire state have brightened prospects for bumper crops and farmers are elated over the way their grains are growing. Hay is still in progress, and heavy crops are reported in a few places. Tobacco transplanting has been completed, and the plants are from one to two weeks ahead of the average. The synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Wisconsin, which was ending Tuesday, July 9th, will be of interest not only to the farmers, but to the general public. It follows: "Nearly all sections of the state were visited by good rains, which were of decided help to crops. Oats, wheat, barley and rye made favorable development; corn improved, but is backward on account of cool weather. Potatoes are in full bloom, and heavy crops of beans, peas, and sugar beets are good. Buckwheat is good and there is a big acreage reported. Cranberries are in full bloom; the present prospect is very bright. The first crop of blueberries are ripening; tobacco transplanting is completed; the plants are in excellent condition and the plants are from one to two weeks ahead of the average season. Hay is still in progress; still in progress; and very heavy crops are reported from a few places, but the first crop is light generally. Rye is ready for harvest in some localities in Green, Dane and other southern counties.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Chicago, July 11.—Extensive war orders are responsible for most of the activity in the markets and the lofty scale of values that all live stock have reached. Buyers are quick to take advantage of a surplus receipts, but just as soon as the supply falls to normal proportions prices bound upward at a gallop, showing that the demand is healthy and strong for any class or meat that can be exported.

At present it is stated—packers are shipping abroad about 50 per cent of the beef slaughtered at all western markets and indications are that shipments will be increased commensurate with army expansion.

While good to choice animals are sought with the most interest, medium grades are also being taken at premium prices. The only kind of stock that is hard to sell is the grassy light weight stuff that kills out poorly and the meat is of such character that it has to go into immediate consumption.

A light supply of cattle yesterday was quickly gobbled up at steeper rates and buyers admitted they had used more money than they had expected to have available. The same was true of good cows and heifers, but the grassy kinds moved slowly and sold no better. Feeders are taking much interest in the market.

Good cattle higher. Demand was very strong for good fat cattle and much of the supply of that class was 10c higher. Top did not reach the record level of Tuesday because there was nothing prime enough offered. The best sold at $18 to $19.50.

Common to good grassers went at $12 to $15. Cows and heifers sold steady at $12 to $14; and the medium cows at $8 to $12. Canners and cutters went at $7 to $8. Bulls ranged from $8 to $13.75. Veal calves sold steady to strong at $16 to $17.25. Feeding cattle moved slowly at 9 to 11.75.

Good Cattle Higher. Demand was very strong for good fat cattle and much of the supply of that class was 10c higher. Top did not reach the record level of Tuesday because there was nothing prime enough offered. The best sold at $18 to $19.50.

Common to good grassers went at $12 to $15. Cows and heifers sold steady at $12 to $14; and the medium cows at $8 to $12. Canners and cutters went at $7 to $8. Bulls ranged from $8 to $13.75. Veal calves sold steady to strong at $16 to $17.25. Feeding cattle moved slowly at 9 to 11.75.

The hog market advanced to 25c, which fully balanced the decline noted Tuesday and brought the bulk of the supply back to 30 cents a level. One load of choice butcher hogs sold up to $17.45, with the bulk of the good hogs at $17.10 to $17.25.

Most of the packing hogs went at $16.40 to $16.55. Receipts were only 16,000 which was much less than expected. The supply thus far this week shows 15,000 decrease from the first three days of last week.

Quotations: Light hogs 17.30 to 17.45. Light bacon 17.10 to 17.40. Good heavy 16.90 to 17.20. Mixed packing 16.40 to 16.85. Rough to heavy 16.95 to 16.40. Poor to best big 14.50 to 16.75.

Lambs Advance 25c. Out of the meager supply of 6,000 sheep and lambs packers were left half the run of last week and there were not many for sale. Prices were generally 15c to 25c higher.

The best native lambs reached $19 and the top for western was $18.25. A string of westerns went mainly at $13.50. Natives ewes went mainly at $10 to $13.

Quotations: Good to choice spring lambs 18.25 to 19.00. Common to medium spring lambs 15.50 to 16.25. Western lambs 17.50 to 18.25. Good native ewes 15.00 to 16.00. Common to medium ewes 10.00 to 12.00. Feeding lambs 14.75 to 16.40.

MIKE AND IKE—THEY LOOK ALIKE

While this meeting was called primarily to agree on officials for the major games to be played this fall it was also an opportunity for the representatives to express their views on the almost unanimous sentiment at the larger colleges and universities toward going forward with football. The fact that Camp is head of the recreational activities in the navy makes what he says on the subject of taking football out of the service the most important. He reminded the representatives that President Wilson, Sec. Daniels and many others have given their support to the colleges of all forms in the colleges and that the statements of these leaders reflect most accurately the opinion of all the colleges. The opinion of all the Princeton may be represented by football teams this fall. Their decisions have yet to be made definitely, but whether or not they take football out of the service there is a great deal of football played

The Robins are the slowest footed aggregation in the National League. Recent figures show they have piled up only thirty-nine bases. They have stolen eight-five times. Max Carey has accounted for twenty-seven of their stolen bases, while the two former

The monstrous justice which such a result would mean for the German ally would be so clear that a way-farmer man though a German, would understand and heed. "Within a month I have seen a viable and exhaustive plan, prepared by a great German engineer and business man, which would bring back to Germany, in which the most subtle and indirect ways are outlined for gaining a strange hold on the business of the world. But retailers, merchants doing a strictly retail business, that is selling only to consumers need not have a license unless their business including other commodities as well as eggs, exceeds 100,000 per year. Country merchants selling to peddlers or warehouses must have licenses.

The object to be attained is that licensees buy only edible eggs, and that necessitates candling them.

LARGEST CONTINGENT TO LEAVE JULY 25TH

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-THREE SELECTS WILL LEAVE CITY ON SPECIAL TRAIN FOR CAMP GRANT AT 11:00 A. M.

BIG DEMONSTRATION

Plans for Parcell will shortly be completed by National Service Welfare Association—Men Will Arrive in Camp at 12:40 P. M.

Entrainment orders for the largest contingent of selected men to leave the city were received this morning by the local board and notices will be mailed out at once to the 143 men affected by the call. They will leave Janesville, Thursday, July 25, at eleven o'clock over the C. M. & St. P. road arriving in Camp Grant at twelve-thirty o'clock. The Lafayette county contingent of twenty-five men will arrive in this city from Burlington at ten o'clock that morning and will depart in company with the local boys on a special train leaving at eleven o'clock.

At Beloit an increment of 219 men will be picked up and the train will leave the Gateway City at 11:32, arriving in Camp Grant 481 men strong. Plans for forwarding the contingent will be made immediately by the National Service Welfare Association so that these boys who are giving up civilian life to enter the army will know that the entire community stands back of them in their new work. As this is the largest number of men to leave the city at one time since the departure of Company "A," the entire community will turn out to do them honor and it will be a memorable day in the history of Janesville.

The entrainment of these men is also important when it is taken into consideration that practically no available class men will be left. With the departure of Company "A," the 1918 scheduled for August however, the local board will be no doubt ready to fill future calls without drawing upon the deferred classes.

SLEIN'S APPEAL IS OVERRULED BY JUDGE

FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION'S ACTION IN DISMISSING PAT SLEIN FROM POLICE FORCE UPHOLD BY JUDGE GRIMM.

SCORED FOR CRUELTY

When One Has Found an Ideal Policeman Says Judge Grimm. "He Has Found a Real Man"—Should Hide "Bills".

That police officers in general are too proud of their "billy" clubs and might just as well carry a bowie knife around clamped between their teeth as some of the statements of Judge Grimm in his opinion in the Patrick Slein case just rendered in which he upholds the Fire and Police Commission's decision in discharging him from the Janesville police force for cruelty to prisoners. He further stated that the evidence shows that Slein exercised an undue amount of cruelty on the person of one Maurice Morganstein, salesman, in arresting him while he was displaying his wares in a store.

After the incident, it will be remembered that Slein was immediately discharged from the police force for violation of Rule 7. Indictment of the commission. Slein through his attorney, E. H. Ryan, filed an appeal for a review of the proceedings of the case with Judge Grimm. All testimony was taken when it came before the commission. It was after the decision of the commission and the decision of the judge has been awaited with much interest, especially by Mr. Slein.

Judge Grimm's decision in the matter is a novel one inasmuch as he has injected into it just enough humor to make it interesting reading. His written opinion follows:

"In the Matter of the Discharge of PATRICK SLEIN from the Police Force of the City of Janesville."

"The above entitled proceeding having, after a further and amended return had been made hereof, returned, by Judge Grimm, to this Court for determination upon the evidence, records and files returned and upon written briefs for counsel for the respective parties in interest, now after due consideration, this Court finds and hereby ADJUDGES: That the decision of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners finding Officer Patrick Slein guilty of unnecessary violence to a prisoner and of disrespect to a superior officer, in violation of Rule 7 of the 'Rules and Regulations for the Government of the Police Force of the City of Janesville, Wis.', and dismissing him from the Police Force, was reasonable and is sustained by this Court. Indeed, it is difficult to see how any reasonable mind can reach any other conclusion from the established facts. That Mr. Slein's language to his 'chief' in connection with the arrest of Maurice Morganstein was grossly disrespectful and subversive of that discipline which is vital to the correct and efficient exercise of police powers, is clearly established by the evidence and interested witnesses, but by the defendant's own admission. And that he used unnecessary and unjustified violence to a prisoner and of disrespect to a superior officer, in violation of Rule 7 of the 'Rules and Regulations for the Government of the Police Force of the City of Janesville, Wis.', and dismissing him from the Police Force, was reasonable and is sustained by this Court. Indeed, it is difficult to see how any reasonable mind can reach any other conclusion from the established facts. The Little Mother of Shack 3

by ZOE BECKLEY

“TWENTY-EIGHT CHILDREN,” said Sally’s mother, who was one of a group of new painted board “shacks” with four paper roofs surrounding a central stone building, once somebody’s home, now an operating room, but one of the French-African provinces. There were a lot of garden and some neat paths with borders of flowers that had not quite died. From the outside the place looked cheery enough.

Inside “Shack 3” were twenty-eight men, fourteen along each wooden wall. In their lay various ages and types and tempers. All looked in better and suffering. Some of the figures on the benches were grotesque in shape, but they were not cast and stunted. Some were made in a round under the beds, so thin their pain-worn frames.

Some were bearded and bulky. Some were young and lithe. A few were gruffly youthful, with big eyes in which was still the dazed wonder of war.

There was even a black face among them, a huge lighter from one of the French-African provinces. And an Arab, a young, little creature with burning eyes and the war scars pinned to the wall above his head.

Sally loved them all, though some more than others, from the dripping old man who had fought like a demon on the battlefield and now cried miserably for his mother, to the young Arab soldier, who clanked his rifle to the front line with his left arm gone.

And how they loved Sally! “For the more de mon coeur,” the young Arab soldier said to her in his broken French.

“And what can the big baby do for his little mother today?” the gruff old man asked. “I would like to see you,” Sally would answer with her gladdest smile, though aware he could not. And he answered Sally.

“I have already having wood for the cook’s stove,” knowing quite well he would never see again so much as the outside of the grub tent.

Sally soon learned that, meriment in a French war hospital is as necessary as food.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would you please tell me a little something about your heart? I have always heard it was good to use instead of a cold cream.

My heart is good to great. It is a little weak, but I am not used to a cold cream.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband and I differ on what we think is essential in diet for growing children, and we would like to have your opinion on the subject.

My two sons are apparently in perfect health, but I am not sure. I am a little nervous, through observation, that nervous prostration, frequent at night, and I am not sure. I am a little nervous, through observation, that nervous prostration, frequent at night, and I am not sure.

Is there any hope for my case? I am a little nervous, through observation, that nervous prostration, frequent at night, and I am not sure. I am a little nervous, through observation, that nervous prostration, frequent at night, and I am not sure.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a friend who I have gone with on for four years. He has asked me to marry him, but I am not sure. I am a little nervous, through observation, that nervous prostration, frequent at night, and I am not sure.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

There are lots of things I know. And I'm sure they're really so. For the Friendly Forest Folks love a little story. Often Robbie Redbreast tells What is happening in the dells.

And would you believe it, this morning this little red-breasted bird flew into my window to tell me how the Weathercock on the Old Barn was trying to crow like Cock Ducky. And of course all the Barnyard Folks laughed at him, for a Weathercock isn't supposed to crow, you know. What he must do is tell which way the wind is blowing. And let the roosters down below sing their cock-a-doodle song.

And after telling me this Robbie Redbreast said that Billy Bunny was back at the Old Briar Patch and was getting a new suit of clothes for school. For the Friendly Forest School was open in a few days and Mrs. Bunny was anxious that her little boy should look spick and span.

Well, after I had listened to the little Robin for maybe half an hour he flew away, and then sat down to write me a letter. In it he told me I'll tell you by and by, but first of all he told me to go back to the Old Briar Patch and see what the little rabbit is doing.

“Now, Billy Bunny,” said his mother, “school will begin in a few days, so here is some money for you to buy pencils and a new slate with. You had better go down to the store and one-cent store and get what you need for school,” and she handed the little rabbit seven and a half cents and he hopped away, and by and by, not so very far, he came to the store. And the first person he saw was Daddy Fox. Yes, sir! There stood the little rabbit's worst enemy, smiling as sweet as a flower, and with his lips just as if he tasted a nice juicy rabbit stew.

“Good morning, Daddy Fox,” said Billy Bunny bravely, for what was the use of looking frightened, for this would only make the old fox all the more cruel.

“Good morning, little rabbit,” said the crafty old fox, “the store is just across the road, and you would hear it, and then he stepped over toward Billy Bunny.

“Don't you come and nearer,” cried the little rabbit, “he gave a quick hop to one side, and it was mighty lucky that he did, for Daddy Fox gave a leap and landed in the very spot where Billy Bunny had been standing. And then he looked up and said, ‘Why, the little shepherd dog that had once saved the little rabbit from the ugly snake, you remember, jumped out of the bushes, and when Daddy Fox saw him, he ran away as fast as he could and even faster.’
